THE GREAT SILENCE CONSPIRACY

—a fully documented exposure of Romanmasonry (i.e. Catholic Action) and Fascism

by ANDREW SINCLAIR

Introduction

Why 'Romanmasonry' ?

This pamphlet's theme is a drama, the drama of Nazism, a tragedy, but a tragedy with a happy ending. The happy ending being Nazism's defeat. Considering Nazism's historical importance one would think that the basic facts about it would be well known, but nothing could be further from the truth. The force or the powerful people who spawned Nazism have made certain that the public has been kept in almost total ignorance of who gave Nazism and Fascism in general birth.

Hence this pamphlet's title, The Great Silence Conspiracy. In a very few words every brand of Fascism was fathered and masterminded by priestly and lay members of the Roman Church. It was a product of SECRET Catholic Action, hence the term Romanmasonry. As Moscow exudes Communism, Rome exudes Fascism. The post-war Cambridge pro-Communist moles were Red Moles: the pre-war Oxford pro-Fascist moles were Black Moles.

Part of the reason for writing this pamphlet is to show that the fuhrers of Fascism everywhere in Europe were members of the Black Internationale, and see what they did to Europe? Their fruits were tyranny, the brutal destruction, the bloody and fiendish destruction of what Democracy there was in Europe; and the 1939-45 holocaust; and as one of the consequences of that war, the spread of Communism in Eastern Europe; and also, to particularise, the near complete annhilation of Europe's Jewish communities, gassed in Nazi gas-chambers or worked to death in German Fascism's slave-labour camps.

In Fascist Italy ("Vaticanland") anti-Semitism was rampant too.

Both Mussolini and Hitler made capital out of the post 1914-18 war conditions in Italy and Germany. Without the First World War there would have been no Dictator Hitler. The Versailles Treaty, the latent anti-Semitism in Germany, and hatred of Russian Communism gave the Nazis their propaganda. The propangada which carried them to power. The writer is not concerned here, however, with 'how' the Nazi leaders captured Germany. Plenty has been written about that. The writer is concerned about 'who' the captors were. Our concern concerns the force of European organisation—indeed international organisation—behind Nazism. Hitler's aim was the restoration of a non-democratic Europe ruled by German militarism and Vatican ecclesiasticism, a modern Holy Roman Empire—that's why he spoke about "a thousand years"—and at the height of Fascism's power Hitler and Pope Pius XII had recreated it. Three non-Roman powers, America, Britain and Russia, exploded that Jesuit dream.

The Infiltrators

If a secretly organised minority of Communists can capture a trade union, what is to prevent a secretly organised minority of Roman Catholics from doing the same?

If one compiled a list of Britain's trade union shop-stewards, their names would run something like Brogan, O'Toole and Brannigan. Where it suits, the Jesuits are the spearheads of revolution; and where it suits, they are the matadors of counter-revolution. There certainly has been a "Scoto"-Irish and an "Anglo"-Irish Roman Catholic take over of the Labour movement, or large segments of it. Mr

Carron, later Lord Carron, Sir Harold Wilson made him a Director of the Bank of England (!), he presided over the AEU, and was notorious for his strange conception of trade union democracy ("Carron's Law," remember?); he was followed by a "lapsed" Communist, Scanlon, now Lord Scanlon, and Scanlon like Callaghan and Healey, the latter also a "lapsed" Communist, is an Irish Roman Catholic name; and now the AEU President is Mr Terry Duffy, another Roman Catholic!

Roman Catholics, 96% of them being of Irish stock, are certainly conspicuous in the labour Party. They seem, however, to have influence in more than the Labour Party. Why have Irish aliens, i.e. citizens of the Republic of Eire, alone of aliens a Parliamentary vote in the United Kingdom? What sort of people do we have in Parliament to tolerate this? If Roman Catholic Ireland is not England's oldest enemy in Europe, who is England's oldest enemy? Why is the public not told that de Valera was the only statesman who sent his condolences to Germany on the death of Hitler? "Anglo"-Catholics, Roman Catholics, and crypto-Roman Catholics just about control the Conservative Party. That is the reality of British politics today. The party warfare and shibboleths gloss over the truth, that the struggle for political power in Britain today, and politics is all about power, is a contest of Rome v. the Rest; the Rest being the genuine Protestants, Humanists, Jews, Patriots and Democrats, whose weakness, as the jesuits well know, is their division. It was the Romans, after all, who made a fine art of conquering by dividing.

Alain Clement writing on the subject of Roman Catholics in the United States, said in "The Weekly Guardian," October 28, 1979, that "No sector of (US) public activity is monopolised by Catholics as the British Foreign Office is, for example." How can any intelligent person read that without asking how it can come about that in an alleged Protestant Britain, or definitely a non-Roman Catholic Britian, Roman Catholics have monopolised the British Foreign Office? How are these Roman Catholics functioning there? Are they working for the good of Britain, or for the good of the Church of Rome? Or are they trying to harmonise Britain's interests with the Black Internationale's plans and aspirations?

Only a few days after he was appointed Secretary of State for Northern Ireland, Mr William Whitelaw lunched with Mr Cecil King. Mr King described the occasion in his "Diaries," 28 March entry, 1979, thus: "Lunched with Willie Whitelaw. I had expected this lunch to be called off, but not so. I was treated with the greatest friendliness and confidence. The gist of what he had to say was that in the end the answer must be a united Ireland. With this in mind one must not say too often that the border is not in question . . . ." That is what Whitelaw was saying in private and it explains why he was made Northern Ireland Secretary, but it was not what he was saying in public, and isn't that just the trouble with so many politicians?

They speak with forked tongues.

It will be recalled that when the Donegal murders took place, the Mountbatten party, Mr J. Callaghan was on holiday in Eire with his son-in-law Mr Peter Jay. A tape recording of all Callaghan's talks there might make interesting reading. Being on holiday in Eire showed this, however, that Mr Callaghan was quite confident that he was on no terrorist death list.

Whoever was in danger, Callaghan was sure he wasn't.

The meaning of totalitarianism

The extent of Romanmasonic burrowing in Britain was shown in the pre-1939 days. They brought Britain to the brink of defeat. In the name of "appeasement" the Black Moles helped Hitler & Co.—the whole Nazi hierarchy was Roman Catholic as this pamphlet shows—to build up the military machine with which Britain was very nearly defeated.

To understand what is going on in Britain today it is essential to understand the difference between totalitarianism and authoritarianism. They are not the same thing, as is believed. Pre-Nazi Germany was totalitarian. Nazi German was authoritarian. The Democratic Weimar Republic had a succession of four Roman Catholic Chancellors, Bruening, Schliecher, Papen and Hitler, Catholic Action with a vengeance! When the Catholic Actionists have a total power in a country greater than the power of any force organised against them, the country is totalitarian.

By total power is meant 'Rome's' combined power in Parliament, the civil service, and especially the civil service, the trade unions, finance, the Courts, the media, the forces, etc.In Britain Catholic Actionists do not require a massive total power to be stronger than their opposition, because who is opposing them?

What opposition does 'Rome' meet with from the Anglican Church? It now faces Rome when it prays. Or from the Presbyterians? Who is opposing the Romanmasons in the British Broadcasting Corporation, where they are as thick as the Foreign Office? The Roman Catholic Ampleforth College makes a feature of its cadet force, to infiltrate the Army. Who is taking note of that? The movement called ecumenism guarantees that 'Rome' is immune from opposition, or even criticism, from the non-Roman Catholic Churches.

That is what sets the tone in Britain. The whole climate in Britain today, created by Jesuit activity over a century and more, assures Catholic Action of unhindered freedom to infiltrate, organise and capture sans criticism, exposure or opposition.

Then when the Romanmasons have a Democracy sewn up, the Democracy is dispensed with and authoritarianism, i.e. Dictatorship, replaces it. Quite easily done when 'Rome' has the total power to do it. In other words, totalitarianism leads to authoritarianism. The big question in Britain today is, who rules Britain? Is Britain 'Rome' ruled? Is Britain a totalitarian country heading for authoritarianism?

ANDREW SINCLAIR.

The facts about Fascism should not be allowed to be forgotten despite the wishes of many ecumaniacs. "Ecumenism" is a Jesuit device to hamper or discourage criticism and exposure of the Church of Rome's myths and political record.

THE GREAT SILENCE CONSPIRACY

Was Hitler a Roman Catholic?

Hitler, an Austrian not a German, was the product of a Roman Catholic "education"; his parents were so closely related that an episcopal dispensation was necessary for the marriage. He was born at the Hotel Zum Pommer in Braunau, Austria, on April 20, 1889. He was born baptised and brought up a Roman Catholic.

"Hitler categorically forbade all research into the period during which he lived in Vienna. The party immediately undertook to collect all documents concerning his youth, so as to prevent their publication . . . . He has been brought up in an atmosphere of Catholic thought; outwardly he always remained Catholic."—Adolf Hitler," by Gorlitz and Quint, vol. 11, p.129.

Dr Henry Picker, author of "The Hitler Phenomenon," English translation published in 1974, joined the inner circle of of Hitler's intimates in 1942. The following is from p. 8 of Picker's book, Hitler "never left the Church, always paid his church-rate punctually. . . . . Ever since his time as a choir boy at the Convent of Lambach, he had admired the Roman Church with its organisation, its ceremonies, its symbols and its banners, and he copied these for his temporal ministry down to the smallest details."

Where was the Nazi Party founded?

It was founded in ROMAN CATHOLIC Bavaria, Germany's Eire; its headquarters were in Munich, the Dublin of Germany.

"Having travelled from one end of Germany to the other," wrote Maurica Laporte, "I came to Munich, capital of Catholic Bavaria where northern Germans are looked upon as foreigners. Since 1918, the rural population of Bavaria has considerably increased. One can well imagine how very tenderly the Vatican cherishes this Bavaria, where Hitler's National Socialism recruits its strongest contingents . . . Hitler has found himself a new vocation that will fill his entire life. From hamlet to hamlet, from town to town he goes lecturing—running down the French and insulting the Jews."

The Roman Church has always been, of course, the font of anti-Semitism. Anti-Semitism was almost unknown in Tzarist Greek Catholic Russia until after the partitions of Poland in 1772 and 1795. Russian anti-Semitism was imbibed from RC Poland. The Spanish "Holy" Inquisition was founded to destroy the Jews in Spain. Quotation from Encyclopaedia Britannica, 11th ed., vol. 2, p. 137: "HERMANN AHLWARDT (b. 1846) towards the end of the eighties eclipsed all other anti-Semites by the sensationalism and violence with which he prosecuted the campaign. The wildness, the unscrupulousness, and full-bloodedness of his campaign enhanced the mob. Over and over again he was prosecuted for libel and convicted, but this seemed only to strengthen his influence with his followers. The Roman Catholic clergy and newspapers helped to inflame the popular passions. The result was that anti-Jewish riots broke out."

Hitler himself often stated that his mentor in anti-Semitism was the Roman Catholic chief lay conductor of political Roman Catholicism in Austria, Dr Karl Lueger, burgomaster of Vienna and leader of the "Christian Social Party."

The most vicious anti-Semite paper, Der Stuermer, was published by one of Hitler's favourites, Julius Streicher, Nazi boss of Franconia. Streicher was a Roman Catholic.

The virulent anti-Semite, W. Joyce, "Lord Haw-Haw," was also a Roman Catholic.

The two leading Roman Catholic publicists—they did much to pioneer the modern RC 'revival'—Belloc and Chesterton, were both virulent anti-Semites. They helped to spawn the pre-1939 "appeasers".

During the 1939-45 war a Conservative MP, Capt. Maule Ramsay, was imprisoned because he was considered a security risk. Capt. Maule Ramsay seethed with anti-Semitism and pro-Nazism. He was married to a Roman Catholic, and his son who died recently was never away from Sancta Maria abbey and Nunraw monastery, Haddingtonshire. That county is a proper Jesuit hot-bed.

Incidentally one of Catholic Action's major hopes in the United States is to enrol America's black population in the US anti-Jewish crusade.

Who wrote "Mein Kampf"?

Mein Kampf, the Nazi bible, was supposed to be written by Hitler, but Otto Strasser says in Hitler and I that Mein Kampf was written by a Roman Catholic priest, Father Bernhardt Stempfle, from notes supplied by Hitler. Otto Strasser, a Roman Catholic, was one of the founders of the Nazi Party: Stempfle, a notorious anti-Semite, was a member of the Roman Catholic Order of Saint Jerome.

How did Hitler become Germany's ruler?

He was made Chancellor by "invitation" just as Mussolini was "invited" to govern Italy. To a large extent the "techniques" of the Nazis faithfully copied the "techniques" whech had proved to be successful in Italy.

When Hitler became Chancellor, who was his Deputy-Chancellor?

Baron Konstantin von Neurath, a ROMAN CATHOLIC, was Hitler's first Foreign Minister. Later he was appointed President of the Secret Cabinet Council. When the Nazis occupied Protestant Bohemia—famous for John Huss and the Protestant missionary Moravian Brethren (it was Moravians who converted John Wesley)—the Roman Catholic Hitler appointed von Neurath as Reich Protector of Bohemia.

Subsequently Hitler appointed Ribbentrop as his Foreign Minister, a numbskull and a puppet who had nothing whatsoever to do with the formulation of Hitler's foreign policy.

Who was Seyss-Inquart?

When Hitler appointed Hans Frank as Governor-General of Poland, the Vienna quisling, Seyss-Inquart, was made Frank's Deputy. Later, appointed Governor of Holland by Hitler, Seyss-Inquart earned the title of "the butcher of Holland" (see p. 1337 of William L. Shirer's Rise and Fall of the Third Reich). In his last will and testament, Hitler's Political Testament, Hitler named Seyss-Inquart for the post of Foreign Secretary of Germany's new government. President Miklas of Austria, not a Nazi, described Seyss-Inquart as "a diligent churchgoer" (p. 408 of Shirer's Rise and Fall of the Third Reich).

During the war criminal trials Pope Pius XII interceded unsuccessfully for Frank. Neurath was given a fifteen years prison sentence: Frank, Streicher, and Seyss-Inquart were hanged.

Who was the Nazi chief propagandist?

The No. 1 liar of the Nazi party, the Nazi Minister of Propaganda, head over press, radio, theatre, etc., was Dr P. J. Goebbels, also a Roman Catholic. Konstantin, Duke of Bavaria, a Roman Catholic, said in his book, The Pope, p. 77, that Goebbels "received a Jesuit education, attended an academy in Catholic Rhineland, and received the scholarship for his training from a Catholic institution."

Goebbels was trained by the world's most brazen liars.

Who were the principal Nazi murderers?

Himmler, head of the Gestapo, Heydrich, his right-hand man, Kaltenbrunner, who succeeded Heydrich, Mueller and Frank, all ROMAN CATHOLICS by birth and upbringing.

Hoess, the Commandant of the infamous Auschwitz, also a Roman Catholic. The first concentration camp was set up by Himmler at Dachau, Munich.

Heinrich Himmler had an uncle who was a Jesuit priest. This Jesuit—Himmler director?—was arrested at the end of the war, but he was not tried, he was found dead one morning in his cell. Himmler, like Goering, cheated the gallows by suicide, or so it was believed.

Charles Wighton, author of Heydrich's biography, Heydrich, writes on p. 26 that "Contrary to the widely held belief that Heydrich was a North German Protestant he was, like most of the other Nazi leaders, a Roman Catholic by birth."

"Hangman Heydrich" was born, baptised and brought up a Roman Catholic in Halle. His father, a Protestant, changed his religion when he married Heydrich's well-to-do mother.

The observant Lord Boothby was a regular visitor to Nazi Germany, and in his autobiography, p. 109, he writes: "The brownshirts, under Roehm, were a homosexual army." During the 1914-18 war Ernst Roem was Hitler's Commander.

Who was Tiso?

Tiso, a Slovak RC priest, was made Chief of the Slovak State by Hitler in 1939. This priest sent the first batch of Jews to Auschwitz in 1941. He was executed by the Czechoslovak Government after the war. "In 1941, at Auschwitz, the first contingent of Jews arrived from Stlvakia and High Silesia, and those who were not capable of working there were immediately sent to the gas-chambers in one of the rooms of the buildings which housed the crematorial ovens."—Lord Russell of Liverpool, Legal Adviser at the War Criminals Trials.

Was Parsons, Casement and Joyce, Roman Catholic?.

The answer is in the affirmative.

Robert Parsons was the English Jesuit priest who persuaded the Pope and the King of Spain to send the Armada against England "for the conversion" of England." Instruments of torture, for the English heretics, formed part of the cargo of some of the Spanish ships. Parsons was a Papist traitor. Casement was the No. 1 traitor of the 1914-18 war. He died with the last rites of the Pope's Church. William Joyce was the No. 1 traitor of the 1939-45 war. In his autobiography, Commander Burt of Scotland Yard, the man who brought Joyce to Britain to stand trial, says, p. 15, that "Joyce died reconciled with the Catholic Church."

What Burt meant was that Joyce, an Irish-born RC, died with the "last rites" of the Roman Church.

Parsons, Casement and Joyce, three Roman Catholic traitors.

Does the evidence prove that Nazism was Roman Catholic?

It certainly does. Fascism of every brand, Italian, German, Spanish, Portuguese, Austrian, French, Belgian, Slovakian, Croatian, was Roman Catholic.

The Belgian Fascist leader, Degrelle, who became Belgium's leading Nazi collaborator when the Nazis occupied Belgium, called his party the Rexist Party—after "Christus Rex," "Christ the King."

Even in the United States it was a Jesuit, a radio priest, Father Coughlin, who tried to found a Fascist party in the United States.

The Catholic Actionists in Britain were a factor in Hitler's and Mussolini's success in Spain. Thanks to their influence in the Foreign Office, the Cabinet, the media and Parliament—where they still have their representatives—"We (Britain) never lifted a finger to help the Spanish Government, and allowed Hitler and Mussolini to win the war for Franco by the most brutal methods without protest."—Lord Boothby, Boothby, p. 123

It was the Spanish Civil War which convinced Hitler that "Rome" was in power in Britain, and therefore that Britain posed no threat to him, and that at the right moment would be a push-over. He under-estimated the tenacity and ability of Churchill, Beaverbrook, Eden, Inskip and Gollancz.

It is significant that every Fascist tyrant, Salazar, Franco, Petain, Hitler and Mussolini, had a Concordat ("Treaty of Harmony") with the Vatican.

Fascism was not a capitalist plot as the Communists (or some of them) say. That is what the Jesuits would like to be believed. It was a CATHOLIC ACTION conspiracy on a grand scale—"Romanmasonry"—to dominate capitalists and workers alike. Just as in past times Popes and their subordinates despotically ruled, wherever possible, kings, princes, merchants and peasants.

It was anti-Freemasonic, because Freemasonry is not a ROMAN CATHOLIC secret society. Ex Jesuit Priest Dr Alberto Rivera documents how Rome DOES also control it

It was "anti" militant Protestants, for obvious reasons.

It was anti-Jewish, because Jews, like Protestants, do not bow down to the Pope.

It was anti-Democratic because Popery is absolutist.

The officials of the Fascist parties were appointed, not elected, in that way the Mussolinis, the Hitlers and the Francos—or the Jesuits—were able to appoint to positions the kind of people they wanted in them, i.e. Roman Catholics, pro-Roman Catholics and RC fifth-columnists.

Fascism was also anti-Greek Catholic. The head of the Greek Catholic Church in Constantinople, in Turkey, has become "reconciled" with the Pope, but the head of the Greek Catholic Church in Greece has stated that his Church will have no truck with the Papacy so long as he lives.

The Fascists massacred Greek Catholics in Serbia, Poland, Greece and Russia, over 200,000 were massacred in Serbia alone by the Croatian RC Ustachi. Read Terror over Yugoslavia" by Avro Manhattan; The Case of Archbishop Stepinac by the Yugoslav Ambassador in Washington (fully documented); Ravening Wolves by Monica Farrell; and The Martyrdrom of the Serbs, compiled from documents and reports from trustworthy United Nations investigators.

The massacre of the Greek Catholics in Yugoslavia was on a par with the massacre of the French Huguenots.

The Fascist mass-murderer in Yugoslavia, murderer of Greek Catholics and Jews, was another Roman Catholic, Pavelic. Before the war he organised the assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia and Mons. Barthou, French Foreign Minister, at Marseilles, and after the assassination he fled to Mussolini's Italy, where he was given refuge and protection.

King Alexander's "crime" was that he was a thorn in (RC) Mussolini's side: and Mons. Barthou's "crime" was that he led the campaign which brought Russia into the League of Nations discredited by Mussolini's Church-blessed Abyssinian campaign.

While Pavelic was massacring Greek Catholics and Jews, he had a Representative across the Adriatic at the Vatican. The Pope was as "silent" about Pavelic's massacres of Greek Catholics and Jews as he was of Hitler's massacring of the Jews.

Was Bormann a Roman Catholic?

The play, The Vicar, by Rolf Huchhuth, is not fiction; it is as accurate historically as any history book. In the US edition of the play, Hochhuth gives 66 pages of documentation.

It has long been known that Goebbels studied for the priesthood. The Austrian Fascist, Dollfuss, also studied for the priesthood. But Rolf Hochhuth says, " . . . Hitler, Goebbels, Bormann, Kaltenbrunner, Hoess . . . studied for the priesthood."

It would be unwise to reject this because you have not heard it before. There are lots of things to come out in connection with Nazism. Meantime the Pope's censors in the media, in Britain and elsewhere, are straining every sinew to the full to keep the masses ignorant of the truth about Nazism.

This is certain anyway, and it was widely reported at the time, when the Congo was the scene of civil war after the Congolese secured their independence, a son of Bormann went to the Congo as a Jesuit priest.

Where was Kurt Weiss captured?

Press quotation, July 15. 1964: "War criminal Kurt Weiss, who jumped bail in Cologne where he was awaiting trial on charges of mass murder of Jews in 1942, was arrested in Austria today. Austrian police, acting on information laid by Eichmann-captor Simon Wiesenthal, took the 50-year-old former S.S. man off an Italy-bound train."

(RC) "Italy bound" . . . naturally.

By every account the condition of the natives of Paraguay is pitiful. It was in Paraguay that the Jesuits founded their notorious Servile State. For the last twenty-five years Paraguay has been ruled by the brutal RC dictator, the son of a Bavarian immigrant, Alfredo Stroessner: and Paraguay became perhaps the haven of haven for German Nazis, Chilean terrorists, and RC Croatian and Italian fascists. Why does the United Nations and all the 'Human Rights' people turn a blind eye to what is going on in Paraguay?

No prizes for the correct answer first time.

It will be remembered that Eichmann was admitted to (RC) Argentine with a Vatican passport.

Is a Roman Catholic education a "bulwark" against Communism?

That a Roman Catholic education is a sort of vaccination against Communism is one of the commonest lies told by the Roman priests in Britain. If Roman Catholicism is a bulwark against Communism, why is it that in Spain, where everybody had a Roman Catholic "education", it required a civil war, so we are told, to defeat Communism in Spain?

Before Cuba went Communist, how many Cubans did not have a Roman Catholic "education"?

Rome's priests want RC schools for two reasons. One is to pump their religious myths into the children, to indoctrinate them religiously; and the other is to teach them "history" with a Papist slant, to indoctrinate them historically. The Roman Catholics—the poor martyred Roman Catholics—the "goodies" in history, the rest the "baddies".

No RC child is told, for example, about the numerous plots to assassinate Queen Elizabeth, or about the record of "Bloody Mary".

They are told nothing about the killing of the Hussites, the persecution of the Waldensians, the butchery of the Huguenots.

It is, of course, the IRA version of Irish history which is taught in RC schools in Scotland today, with no mention (for example) of the fiendish massacres of Irish Protestants which took place in 1640-42.

Under the Weimar Republic—it tried to be democratic and Hitler cursed it for being non-militarist—the Jesuits got "Communism" pumped into the Roman Catholic Rhineland, and "Nazism" pumped into the Roman Catholic Bavarians. (Pacelli, later Pius XII, called a "mystic" by the RC Professor of Louvain, Roger Aubert, was the Pope's man in Munich while Hitler was organising the Nazi Party there.) Between these two, the RC Rhineland "Reds" and the RC Bavarians "Browns", Weimar Germany was kept in a ferment.

That was the game.

Ultimately Hindenburg, on the proposal of the Roman Catholic Papen, and partly blackmailed, "invited" Hitler to become Chancellor to establish "order" in Germany.

The way being paved for the Jesuit capture of Germany over many years by the Roman Catholic Centre Party.

Instances can be given of prominent Roman Catholics urging and even explaining the modus operandi of RC infiltration. An example was given at a prize-giving ceremony at St Aloysius College, Glasgow, in 1921 by Professor Phillimore. "Scotland being what it is," said Phillimore, "and its history being what it has been, I do not believe that we would be on right lines seriously to attempt the conversion of Scotland until we have set about the problem of capturing the universities. The universities are open to capture; they are undefended cities. We have only to go there in sufficient numbers and the thing is done." Professor Phillimore didn't know that a "Glasgow Herald" reporter was at the prize-giving. It might not be a bad idea to start winning over Scottish University Professors to Freemasonry. There is only one way to defeat secret Roman Catholic action and that is by secret anti-Roman Catholic action.

Did Mussolini save Italy from Communism?

This tale—no historian would waste five minutes on it—was invented to win sympathy for Italian Fascism in Conservative circles in Britain, the United States, and elsewhere. Mussolini was a Socialist renegade, and this shows that he was a Fascist turncoat—one of the planks of the Fascist Party when founded was "the confiscation of property belonging to the Church."

Instead of confiscating the Roman Church's property, it was Mussolini who founded the modern financial fortunes of the Vatican!

> The secret of the Jesuits is that Loyola, their founder, and his cronies, adopted Machiavelli's "The Prince"—a book wherein politics is completely divorced from morals—as their textbook.

Everything Jesuit, including Fascism, is unavoidably Machiavellian.

Christopher Hibbert's Benito Mussolini is as impartial a biography as it likely to be written and on p. 61 Hibbert says that "he (Mussolini) was careful to nourish the impression that he saved them (the Italians) from chaos and Bolshevism . . . he was infuriated by those who discovered the truth that Fascism was a counter revolution against a revolution which never took place . . . that it (Fascism) had to come to power to save the country from Bolshevism was one of Fascism's most assiduously fostered myths."

For a RC party to call itself a "democratic" party is a laugh, because when democracy, then called "liberalism", was growing in Europe the Papacy was its deadliest enemy. The so called Italian Christian Democrat Party is secretly Jesuit as Mussolini's party was. It is Jesuit rule in Italy under a different name from Fascism and employing by necessity different methods. The significant thing is that every Italian Prime Minister since the end of the 1939-45 war has been a Christian Democrat. Italy today shows all the signs of falling apart. It has only been a nation since 1860, and become one in spite of the Papacy's opposition.

Did Mussolini persecute the critics of the Roman Church?

The answer is in the following from No Friend of Democracy by Edith Moore, p.8: "On 11th February 1932, the Fascist dictator appeared in ceremony at St Peter's, was sprinkled with holy water, made the sign of the cross and prayed . . . Catholicism was granted a virtual monopoly in the educational and cultural fields by decree of the Fascist ruler. The opponents of Catholicism, religious and otherwise, were persecuted, hunted, imprisoned and silenced with the aid of the State machinery."

That is reminiscent of what the Jesuit Monsignor Ronald Knox wrote in The Belief of Catholics," " . . . when we demand liberty in the modern State we are appealing to its own principles not ours."

That should be the text of a sermon in every Protestant church at least once a year.

What was the Barmen Declaration?

Quotation from Christian Against Hitler, by E. H. Robertson, p. 10: "An organisation of Protestant churches, known as the Confessing Church, including eventually some 2,000 parishes spread over most of Germany, was the only continuous and organised resistance throughout the period of Hitler's Nazi Germany. In the day Hitler seized power in 1933, its forces were gathering and within a year it was organised on a national basis with a charter of resistance, the Barmen Declaration . . . The Resistance of the Confessing Church to the policy of Hitler continued into and through the war years. It alone survived the bitter attack upon all opposition and non-conformity, and raised its voice constantly in 2,000 pulpits and in every possible way".

The nearest thing in Scotland to these German Confessional churchmen are churchmen of the Free Church of Scotland.

"Official" German Protestantism—i.e. the leading Lutheran churchmen—did virtually nothing to prevent the Jesuit capture of Germany. The Roman Catholic gangsters, for that is all they were, who took over Germany could never have succeeded without the connivance of the Lutheran prelates. Similarly in Britain "official" Protestantism—the leading Anglican and Presbyterian churchmen—are doing nothing to combat political Roman Catholicism in the United Kingdom.

Their silence on the subject of the Jesuits or Jesuitism, and their activities, is deafening.

Television reeks with Roman Catholic propaganda and they do nothing about it.

Britain has been blanketed with the colossal Jesuit lie that the Roman Church's "membership" is 700,000,000 to 740,000,000—the figure is nearer 150,000,000—and no prominent Protestant clergyman makes any attempt to publicly expose this lie.

Years ago Dr. Candlish, a founder of the Scottish Reformation Society, said: "We know the sad supineness into which long security has lulled by far the larger part of the Protestant community; and we know the busy and insidious zeal with which in Scotland as well as in England a middle party of treacherous Protestants and disguised Papists are pioneering the way to Rome."

It is possible that the Jesuit plague in the Church of Scotland can only be countered and eradicated by concerted Protestant leadership by the elders.

If these elders stopped to think about the essentials of the Roman creed—bowing to images, the rosary, priestly celibacy, Papal primacy and infallibility, transubstantiation, a palpable falsehood if ever there was one, confession, invocation and canonisation of saints, veneration of (fraudulent) "holy" relics, indulgences, purgatory, payment of Masses for the dead, "holy" water, the "immaculate conception," another fable, the worship of the "Mother of God", an unscriptural expression, and pure paganism, Peter and Paul do not even mention Mary, nuns, etc., they would soon realise that Protestantism and Roman Catholicism are two totally different religions.

Let us, however, for they deserve it, salute the memory of the churchmen and congregations of the Confessing Church who spurned the diktats of the Nazi Roman Catholic tyrants, and spurious patriots.

This is significant too, that only one leading statesman sent his condolences to the German Government on the death of Hitler—Eamon de Valera.

Pilsudski, Poland's RC dictator, was not a Pole: Adolf Hitler, the RC dictator of Germany, was not a German: and Mr de Valera was not an Irishman. Interesting, don't you think?

What did Gerda Guttenberg say about the Roman Catholic anti-Nazi martyrs?

Gerda Guttenberg of Nurnberg wrote: "Those martyrs of the Church who lived and died in (Nazi) concentration camps were individuals opposing their Church . . . When in 1933 the socialists and liberals began to move out of their positions everywhere, Catholics in large numbers moved in, took over Jewish stores and shops. . . . . To believe that National Socialism was a unique ideology is mistaken. It was a collection of resentment groups, some with the intention of re-establishing a Germany as in 1914, some for expanding towards the east for economic or ideological reasons. By far the strongest pressure group was the Catholic bloc . . . Von Papen gave a speech on November 9th, 1933, three days before the election, which when successful, brought a merge of state and party, thus overruling the Weimar Constitution. Among other things he said in this lecture: 'The get-together of Catholic ideology and National Socialism must be welcomed wholeheartedly.' "

"When thousands of German anti-Nazis were tortured to death in Hitler's concentration camps, when the Polish intelligensia was slaughtered, when hundreds of thousands of Russians died as a result of being treated as Slavic Untermenschen (sub-humans), and when 6,000,000 human beings were murdered for being non-Aryan, Catholic Church Officials in Germany bolstered the regime perpetuating these crimes. The Pope in Rome, the spiritual head and supreme moral teacher of the Roman Catholic Church, remained silent."—Guenter Lewy, The Catholic Church in Nazi Germany.

The Pope, in secret of course, welcomed the Nazi occupation of Austria, because the "union" of Austria with Germany increased the Roman Catholic population of Germany. That is why Cardinal Innitzer urged the Austrians to vote "Ja" for the anschluss.

Re Poland, the Pope does not mind who rules a country so long as one of "his" rules it. A Poland ruled by the RC Hitler was as acceptable to the Pope—in fact more acceptable—as a Poland ruled by the RC Col. Beck. The Vatican secretly approved the invasion of Poland.

"I have to confess" said Friedrich Heer, quoted from the Roman Catholic The Commonweal, February 1964, "that all Catholics, from the highest to the lowest,—priests, chaplains, laymen (anti-Semetic to this day)—are co-responsible for the mass murder of the Jews. Not only the thousands of baptised, confirmed and religiously-wedded Christians who took a direct part in the mass murders . . . . Not only bishops who, as in Poland and Hungary, drew up anti-Semitic pastoral letters and permitted their publication . . . We have presented to us the frightful failure of Rome from 1933 to 1945."

All confirming what Gerda Guttenberg said.

Who were the "Fuehrer's Prelates"?

Der Speigel, hated by Adenauer and Strauss—the Bavarian RC Strauss even tried to destroy it—on May 24, 1961, published an article entitled The Fuehrer's Prelates, which contains the following:—

"The fact that the Catholic Church of 1933 came to an agreement with the new regime in a surprisingly short time, has been well-known . . . The Centre Party and its Munich scion, the Bavarian People's Party, voted unanimously for an act which empowered the Nazi Government to pass laws without the approval of Parliament. Without the Catholic vote this act would have fallen through. The Curia agreed with Hitler on a Concordat, which secured important cultural rights for the Church on one hand, but also made Hitler internationally acceptable on the other.

"After Prelate Ludwig Kaas presented the Third Reich with the Centre Party's consent to the Ermachtigungsgesetz, he additionally sent his 'sincere blessings' and his 'unfaltering co-operation on the great task' by telegram to the Fuehrer on the occasion of Hitler's birthday on 20th April, 1933.

"Medieval as this alliance between the power of the people and the power of God may seem, the clerical enthusiasm rose even higher when the Concordat was signed. The Archbishop of Breslau, Cardinal Bertram, explained at the Bishops' Conference in Fulda:— 'The Church will willingly co-operate with a Government that has made the fight against the Godliness and immorality the guiding star of its programme.' The Archbishop of Freiburg, Grober:—he puts 'unshaking trust in the Fuehrer'; he stands 'one hundred per cent' behind him. Bishop Berning of Osnabruck:— 'The German bishops have given their consent to the new State long ago.' Bishop Bornewasser of Trier:— 'With our heads held high and with firm steps, we have marched into the new Reich, and we are prepared to serve it body and soul.' "

"The manner in which the trade union movement collapsed—its executive calling on members to take part in Hitler's May Day labour celebrations, which occurred a bare twenty-four hours before the official abolition of the trade unions made a melancholy spectacle. Even worse is the manner in which the Churches in great measure appeared to welcome collaboration with Hitler; the Bishops of the Catholic Church in Germany issued a pastoral letter in June 1933 which welcomed the fact that 'the men at the head of the State have to our great joy given a formal assurance that they take their stand on Christianity', and added that this required 'a sincere attitude (response) on the part of all Catholics'. The Concordat sealed this rapproachment between religion and Fascism. The Protestants established a Nazi-inspired branch of their Church, headed by Reich Bishop Mueller. On the other hand, many individual Catholics on all levels were courageously to oppose Hitler, as did the Protestant Bekennende Kirche (Confessional Church) of Pastor Niemoller. The Hundred Days to Hitler, by Roger Manvell and Heinrich Fraenkel, p. 151.

Who financed the Nazi Party?

German capitalists no more financed Hitler than British capitalists financed Mosley.

There is every reason to believe that Hitler was financed by Mussolini.

It is very likely that Salazar, Franco, Hitler and Mussolini all slipped money surreptitiously—pillaged from their respective Treasury Departments—to the Vatican, in addition to the monies given openly. That, you can be sure, is where much of the Papacy's wealth today came from. Dictatorships can do that: Democracies cannot.

About the only notable German capitalist to finance Hitler was Fritz Thyssen, a ROMAN CATHOLIC.

Subsequently, after Hitler came to power, Thyssen and Hitler quarrelled, and to save his life Thyssen fled to Switzerland. There a Swiss paper published an article by him entitled: "Pacelli Made Hitler Dictator."

Had the Jesuits anything to do with Czechoslovakia's collapse?

They had everything to do with it. Czechoslovakia came into being as a DEMOCRATIC and Czech-led, i.e. PROTESTANT-led Republic. Its first President was Masaryk. He was born a Roman Catholic, and became a lawyer. He fell foul of his priestly 'superiors' when they tried to prevent him, by threats, etc., from defending a poor Jew who had been charged with ritual murder. Masaryk defended him, and successfully. Then in profound disgust he left the Roman Church.

It was during the 1914-18 war, and on the fifth centenary of the martyrdom of John Huss, that Masaryk raised the standard of Czech freedom in the Hall of the Reformation at Geneva. Freedom from Roman Catholic Hapsburg rule.

From the moment Czechoslovakia came into being at the end of World War No. 1, the Papacy hated the DEMOCRACY and the PROTESTANTISM of the Czech Republic. In the north there were Sudetenlanders, former Austrians, Roman Catholics. Led by Henolein they clamoured for "Home Rule for Sudentenland." The RC Slovaks, led by a Jesuit priest Tiso, hollered for "Home Rule for Slovakia." The Pope hated the idea of Protestant Czechs ruling Roman Catholic Slovaks, which they did because they outnumbered them and were much better educated. In the south, in Ruthenia, a Uniat priest Voloshin shouted for Home Rule for Ruthenia." The Uniat Church, in communion with Rome, was set up by the Jesuits as a breakaway from the Greek Orthodox Church.

These three Jesuit-inspired fifth-columns, moles, undermined Czechoslovakia.

When threatened by Hitler if they had gone to war the Czechs could very probably have defeated the Nazis if they had been united, because they were much better armed. Czechoslovakia had a defence pact with France; but France, riddled with Jesuit traitors, refused to go to Prague's assistance when threatened by Hitler.

Hitler could never have reached the pinnacle of power he reached without the "appeasing" that went on in Britain in particular and in France. In Britain the appeasers (fools or traitors) were right at the top of the Conservative Party, in the Cabinet, and high up in the Civil Service. Only £SD mattered to the Men Of Wealth. " . . . the Conservative Party was rotten to the core. The only thing they cared about was their property and their cash", so wrote LORD BOOTHBY in his autobiography, Boothby, p. 121. "The Labour and Liberal Parties were no better", he added. Theodore H. White (In Search of History), American chronicler, says that Attlee was "one of the greatest nonentities of British history."

The Jesuits had done their job well, at Oxford, in the Tory Party, and in the Labour Party too. There is no doubt that Attlee was a total chump, and that is what made him Labour's leader.

When the Nazis marched into the Rhineland, "the opening move of a second world war", according to

Lord Boothby, the Papist Philip Kerr, later Lord Lothian, said: "They are only walking into their own back garden."

It was powerful people, and the media of course, who sold "appeasement" to the easily bluffed British public: and it is the spiritual descendants of these pre-1939 knaves and fools who are selling the Common Market to the British public now. Once again, all the monied people are bothering about is their shares, investment, profits. When the choice is between patriotism and gold bars, the odds are on the nuggets.

Chamberlain was a fool, that is why he was made Prime Minister—the Jesuits also assumed that Asquith, another fool, would lead Britain to defeat in the 1914-18 war. Asquith's family turned Roman Catholics—and the super-appeaser, Lord Halifax, was the son of the Anglo-Romanist who led the Oxford Corporate Reunion Movement, a movement which wanted the Church of England to go over 'bodily' to the Church of Rome.

The end (for the moment at least) was the Munich Treaty, yes it had to be "Munich". And when Chamberlain signed that inglorious treaty, Cardinal Hinsley in England cried: "Three cheers for Mr Chamberlain, he is our centre-forward today." Take note of the "our". The Munich Treaty was a great victory for the Jesuits. By a stroke of the pen Hitler was gifted the whole of Czechoslovakia's—because it was followed by the invasion of Czechoslovakia—small arms, 200 warplanes, excellent tanks, and the great Skoda armament works.

Now, because the war came about that Hitler planned for—he even calculated (wrongly) that Japan would neutralise America's intervention in Europe Eastern-Europe, including Czechoslovakia, is Communist, and Czechoslovakia's military leaders have no intention of scrapping their alliance with the Soviet Union.

The Jesuits, because they are the first in the field with their secret organisation, are dab hands at winning every round . . . but the last one.

How strong was the RC element in Mosley's Fascist party?

When a young Conservative Member of Parliament—Mosley was not a rich man at all, but he married a woman with money and powerful political connections, a daughter of Lord Curzon, her mother a Jewess—Mosley's first adventurism in politics was on the side of the Irish (RC) republicans. In his autobiography Mosley wrote, "My over-riding purpose in leaving England in 1951 was to make myself a European . . . Ireland was chose as my base for two main reasons; my old friendships in that country dating as far back as my political campaign on the Irish question in 1920 . . ." The Mosley British Union of Fascists was riddled with Roman Catholics. It's largest branch was the London-Irish one at Kilburn. Roman Catholic Liverpool was the Mosley stronghold after London. Mosley launched his BUF with an attack on tithes—an attack on a Church of England source of revenue. That was about his only major or 'national' campaign. It is amusing that the word "tithes" does not appear in the index of Mosley's autobiography. Who financed the Mosley Fascists? Certainly not the British "Capitalist Class". Mosley's two chief lieutenants were both Roman Catholics Wm. Joyce, "Lord Haw-Haw," who left the party and went to Germany, and a Alexander Raven Thomson. the first Secretary-General of the BUF was an ex-Labour MP, Robert Forgan, of Presbyterian Stock. When he saw how many of the BUF's leading officials were Roman Catholics—all of them appointed, none of them elected—he resigned. His place was taken by a Mr Box, a thorough going Anglo-Romanist. Mosley's chief in Scotland, a Mr Duffy, was a Roman Catholic.

Could Hitler claim that his Dictatorship was constitutional?

Yes, he was constitutionally invited to the Chancellorship, and the German Parliament, the Reichstag, constitutionally—with a bit of twisting here and there, imprisoning Social Democrats and Communists, etc.—gave him powers.

This is what happened.

To suspend Parliament, and to rule without it, Hitler had to obtain a two-thirds majority in the Reichstag for his "Empowering Bill," presented to the Reichstag, which met in the Kroll Opera House—the Reichstag building had been burned down on March 26, 1933. Hitler secured the necessary two-thirds majority BY THE ROMAN CATHOLIC DEPUTIES OF THE BAVARIAN PEOPLE'S PARTY AND THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CENTRE PARTY MEMBERS IN THE REICHSTAG VOTING ALONG WITH THE NAZIS.

What about a BBC television programme on that most important event?

It was the Roman Catholics in Germany who presented Hitler with dictatorial powers.

Immediately afterwards the RC Centre Party voluntarily dissolved itself, it had finally fulfilled its German mission, and the party's chief in the Reichstag, the Jesuit priest Mgr. Kaas, went to Rome, WHERE THE POPE PROMPTLY MADE HIM PAPAL FINANCE MINISTER.

What is the truth about Roman Catholic teaching re birth control and abortion?

Roman Catholic teaching about abortion has nothing to do with the 'sanctity of human life'. That is just their story. The Roman priests also oppose contraceptives and the pill. Why? the explanation is that the priests want couples to have babies because every baby born adds one more to their 'army' and is a potential contributor to their funds. That is the true reason for their opposition to artificial contraception and abortion.

If a woman is having a difficulty in giving birth to a baby, the RC 'directive' is—"Let the woman die, save the baby." The explanation for that is—if a woman cannot produce children, "let her die". The RC husband can get another wife capable of producing them.

Where was the 'sanctity of human life' when Mussolini's bombers were killing defenceless Ethiopians? The RC clergy in Italy, from the Pope down, were ecstatically behind Mussolini during the Ethiopian campaign. Mussolini's troopers "were planting Christ's Cross in Ethiopia," they declared. (The Ethiopians were Copts, not Roman Catholics.) When the RC hierarchy in Germany was giving Hitler its 100 per cent support for his war efforts, including the Nazi invasion of Roman Catholic Poland, where was the concern then for the 'sanctity of life'? The priests of Rome get away with their hypocrisy about birth control and abortion because the prostitutes, the mercenaries, the creeps in the media let them get away with it.

Conclusion

That almost all the facts in this pamphlet are completely unknown to the British public, shows the power of "Rome" in the British media today. Jesuititis, or secret Catholic Action, is the chief cause of Britain's and America's malaise today. If there is a cancer in the Western world, the name for it is Romanmasonry.
